PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

More than 20 years invested within the speech-language pathology profession has resulted in a wide range of field experiences related to speech sound production, language deficits, phonological disorders, dyslexia, cognitive and neurological impairments, voice, fluency, stuttering, hearing loss, swallowing, and autism spectrum disorder. I have served in various contexts ranging from public schools, the Head Start Program, the private sector, hospitals, rehabilitation, long-term care facilities, home health, and within the university setting. The majority of my clinical experience has involved working in the Language and Literacy Clinic at Baylor University. I have been honored to provide supervision for 10 SLPAs and hundreds of undergraduate and graduate student clinicians. I also have experience with academic instruction at the undergraduate level for students in Communication Sciences and Disorders.
